

A HANDFUL OF MEMORIES

Sitting here late in the afternoon,
It happens a breeze seems to bring
A handful of memories.

I see a heartwarming friendship,
That of sweet laughter and soft songs.
I see engagements in talk,
Idle talk so greatly enjoyed...
I see sudden disappointment,
Bottomless from the foibles of age.

And as the wind whips up again
With it comes a pocketful of days
Days full of sweat and tears,
Dedication and education,
Followed by breakless days,
Sleepless nights,
Hopeless loves.

Now looking on it as a whole,
Even the rough times were good.
And when my heart seemed failing,
There would always come a breeze,
One that seemed to bring
A handful of memories.

May 1, 1989

Hello again! We are very pleased with the response to the suggestion of a Reunion. We are so glad you can come. Once again, the date is June 3, 1989, and the place will be at the home of Charles & Mildred Smith.

A good hour to begin will be 10 A.M. and you are welcome to stay as late as you like. We will have a great time visiting and catching up on what has happened in 45 or more years.

If you like, bring a picnic lunch and a favorite covered dish to share with everyone at evening mealtime. Then about 2 o'clock we can reflect on our lives since high school, the rest of the afternoon we can visit, then stay for an evening meal.

Please bring a lawn chair, any pictures and information that you may have, so we all can share.

Also try to remember some school songs and cheers, any popular songs of the 40's.

Looking forward to seeing you then!

Mildred
